Integra Fabrics Awarded 2018 Industry Impact Award

As part of the 27th annual Industry Appreciation series, the S.C. Department of Commerce recognized its 2018 Industry Impact award recipients during an event on Thursday, April 26 at 701 Whaley Street in Columbia, S.C. Honoring businesses that have made significant contributions to their communities and state, the recipients were selected within a certain employment size and county development tier group.

“South Carolina has developed a reputation around the world as a place that’s got it all, and that includes a workforce that can meet any challenge,” said Gov. Henry McMaster. “These local business leaders from all across our state are what make South Carolina such a wonderful place to live, work, and play.”

Each year, S.C. Commerce joins local communities to thank businesses for their vital contributions to South Carolina’s economy with an Industry Appreciation event. Nominees for this year’s Industry Impact awards were judged based on a number of factors, including capital investment, job creation, community engagement and environmental stewardship.

“Team South Carolina is composed of countless moving parts and players, and we’re proud to recognize some of the companies that have made our state’s economy an international powerhouse,” said Secretary of Commerce Bobby Hitt. “These recipients represent the workforce that has made our ongoing success possible.”

Myrtle Air Services receives 145 Air Agency Certificate

Myrtle Air Services, Inc. (MASI) has earned its 145 Air Agency Certificate from the FAA. The FAA regulates civil aviation safety and stipulates that aircraft parts must be repaired by a certified repair station to be legally installed in an aircraft. The certification means that MASI will be held to the FAA’s rigorous high standards, ensuring that the repair station’s programs, systems, and methods of compliance are continuously reviewed, evaluated, and tested.

Myrtle Air Services announced its second location as a subsidiary of Kingman Air Services to Horry County in July 2016. The 145 Air Agency Certificate will be very beneficial to the company’s growth in Horry County.

For Second Straight Year, North Myrtle Beach Chamber of Commerce Wins Crisis Communication and Issues Management Award

At this year's South Carolina Chapter of the Public Relations Society of America annual Mercury Awards, the North Myrtle Beach Chamber of Commerce and CVB claimed the top honors of "Crisis Communication and Issues Management" award for the second consecutive year. This award of excellence was rightfully earned by the North Myrtle Beach Chamber for developing programs undertaken to deal with an event of issue that has had or may have an extraordinary impact.

"The 'Coast is Clear' campaign was originally developed in 2016 when Hurricane Matthew hit the coast," said George DuRant, senior vice president of tourism development for the CVB. "The campaign resonated with our visitors and they immediately knew we were a resource for keeping them updated and informed. That event provided a 'crisis playbook' we continued to refine to help those in need when Hurricane Irma came storming through."

Laudisi Enterprises Expanding into Dublin, Ireland

From the Laudisi Press Release: Customer service is the keystone of our business, so when we started receiving inquiries from European customers about the possibility of a Smokingpipes website in their own languages, with quicker European shipping, we took notice, and for the past two years have been working to establish a European branch.

Today, we're pleased to announce that those efforts are reaching fruition. In June, we will open an office in Dublin to bring our favorite pipes (new and estate), as well as a range of pipe smoking accessories, to a European audience. A unique, multilingual website will launch in late summer, complete with all the features expected from Smokingpipes.com.

We've explored numerous questions regarding the new branch, two of the primary being, "Will we sell tobacco?" and, "Where will the office be located?" On the former, the answer is no, because European tobacco regulations make doing so impracticable. On the latter, we considered a number of options where we had deep relationships with suppliers, finally settling on Dublin. Dublin is easily accessible from the US and Europe, simplifying travel between our offices and visits to pipemakers and other vendors on the continent.

There is much to prepare. In early June, a few folks from our South Carolina offices will transfer to new digs in Dublin. Adam O'Neill, social media specialist, his wife Chana, merchandising specialist, and Josh Burgess will relocate to prepare the European branch. They will be joined by several European hires who, among other roles, will provide customer service in major European languages and generate translations for web content.

We're excited about the future, for ourselves, the company, and the pipe smoking community. We anticipate that Smokingpipes Europe will provide plentiful opportunities to better know our friends in Europe and that the new site will, of course, fulfill a growing need for plenty of fresh pipes and accessories.
